

What Does Marriage Mean to You and Your Future Spouse?

- What do I know about my future spouse and their personality?
- Why do I want to get married?
- Why does my future spouse want to get married?
- What ideas does my future spouse have about marriage?
- Does my future spouse believe marriage is for a lifetime?
- What do I like and dislike about my future spouse?
- Can I live with what I see?
- What kind of roles will each of us play in our marriage?
- How will decisions be reached?
- What kind of relationship does my future spouse have with their family?
- Does my future spouse challenge me to grow or change?
- What do I think I need from my future spouse?
- How independent should each of us be?
- What does my future spouse expect of me?
- Am I comfortable with what my future spouse expects of me?
- Is my future spouse reliable in their work or studies?
- What are the goals, both career and personal, of my future spouse?
- Does my future spouse have career ambitions with which I am comfortable?
- Does my future spouse like people, and get along with people?
- How does my future spouse treat family and friends?
- Do I like my future spouse's friends?
- How does my future spouse react if he/she does not get what he/she wants?
- How do I communicate with my future spouse?
- Is that how I want to communicate in the future?
- How much do I depend on my future spouse?
- How dependent should I be?
- How do I handle money?
- How will we, as a couple, handle money?
- Do we agree on what possessions are important?
- What are my ideas about the importance of sexual expression within marriage?
- What are my spouses ideas?
- How many children (if any) do I want to raise?
- What are my ideas about child rearing?
- Does my future spouse agree with my ideas?
- How important is God, religion, faith, and/or spirituality in my life?
- Is it important that my future spouse shares these ideas?